Dmitri Schuyler-Linch as "Robbie"

Just a couple weeks ago at Comic-Con, comic book creator DANI DIXON ("13," "M.I.S.//ing," "Five Nations") announced from the "Insights for Indie Creators" Panel that pre-production had begun on a web series set in the "13" universe. As of press time, production for the live-action series, "13: The Interviews," is well under way with nine episodes already in the can and several more slated to be shot right away.

The comic book "13" is about a society where every teen gets a superpower, but for only one year. There are no rules for how the kids use their power, but at the age of 14 their power leaves and they receive a score based on how they lived that year. The web series "13: The Interviews" surrounds a number of individuals who are questioned about the choices they made when they had all the power in the world.

LeShaeveon Rowe as "Michelle"

A cool bonus for fans of the comic books, several of the cast members for the web series are the same actors who were the original reference models for the characters. These young actors have grown up in real-time along with their illustrated counterparts.

"13: The Interviews" is debuts next month.
